

RE-ORGANIZATION IS UNDER DISCUSSION BY THE COMMITTEE

REPUBLICAN LEADERS STILL DISCUSS THE REPRESENTATION CLAUSE.

NEW IDEA SUBMITTED

Result Will Not Be Reacted Until Late Today By The Various Committees.

Washington, Dec. 17.—Only two propositions remained to be acted upon today by the republican national committee, which is considering reform measures planned to reunite the party.

The problems were to clear the party of the machinery of certain features and to reduce representation in national convention from southern states and congressional districts which are regarded as overwhelming by the majority.

A report from a special sub-committee headed by National Committeeman Warren of Michigan offered a solution of each.

The sub-committee's report on primary election and procedure reads in part as follows:

"Be it resolved, That this committee when it issues the call for the national convention to be held in the year 1916 to nominate candidates for president and vice-president shall provide in such call:

"(A) That in any state which shall have provided by law, prior to the election of delegates from such state to the national convention of political parties at direct primaries, such delegates from that state shall be elected in conformity with such law.

"(B) That all delegates from any state may be chosen from the state at large or part from the state at large and part from congressional district in conformity with the laws of the state in which the election is held.

"(C) That delegates presenting certificates of election from the canvassing board or office created or designated by state law to canvass the vote for the election of delegates to delegates to national convention of political parties in a primary election shall be based upon temporary roll by the national committee.

The Warren committee finally agreed upon a plan of reapportionment providing for four delegates at large from each state, one from each congressional district where the total republican vote was 25 per cent or more of the total vote cast. No district, however, would have more than two delegates no matter how large the republican vote. States having congressional vote large to be entitled to one delegate each.

The congressional election of 1910 probably will be used as the basis for determining the exact representation in each state. Territories and the District of Columbia would have two delegates each. The plan provides also that it shall become executive when it is ratified by states representing a majority of the electoral college.

Under the plan the representation in national convention would be reduced by seventy-five delegates. The following states would lose the following number of delegates: Alabama 6, Florida 2, Georgia 2, Louisiana 2, Mississippi 2, North Carolina 2, Oklahoma 1, South Carolina 2, Tennessee 4, Texas 14, Virginia 5, Kentucky 1, New Jersey 1, New York 4, total loss for the south 61. Illinois 2, Kentucky 1, New Jersey 1, New York 4, total loss for the north 8.

A plan for additional delegates where the republican vote was more than 40 per cent of the total was rejected because under it the north would lose proportionately more delegates than the south. Under it New York's representation would be cut by 8 and Ohio's by 5. The sub-committee unanimously agreed on the 35 per cent plan.

The plan of the sub-committee to recognize primary laws and change the rules governing conventions was adopted by the national committee by a unanimous vote on a point raised by Committeeman Chubb of Florida. It was announced that the resolutions would be changed so that in states where it is optional whether a party shall hold primaries for the selection of delegates they shall be selected in the old manner and the primary plan shall be observed only in states where the law provides specifically for such action.

With the resolutions for reapportionment of delegates an amendment was accepted providing the basis for the selection of delegates from each congressional district in addition to one should be based on the republican vote for republican presidential electors in 1908 or for the republican candidates for congress in 1914, which ever is the higher.

R. B. Howell of Nebraska submitted a minority report. He contended that everything except the apportionment scheme.

After several hours of discussion the republican national committee today re-committed to a sub-committee which will report today the question of a plan for reduction in representation of national conventions.

POPE PIUS OVERCOME ON HEARING NEWS OF RAMPOLLA'S DEMISE

His Holiness Orders Highest Honors Be Paid to Deceased Cardinal, Who Wishes Church Reunion.

Rome, Italy, Dec. 17.—The death of Cardinal Rampolla, former papal secretary of state, was not made known to Pope Pius until this morning. Cardinal Merry del Val and M. Giovanni D'Ercole, the pope's private secretary, went to see his holiness at an early hour intending to break the sad news as gently as possible. But when the pope heard the name of Cardinal Rampolla coupled with the word "indisposition" he grew pale and begged them to tell him the truth without hesitation, as anxiety and uncertainty affected him more than anything else. The two prelates then told him that Rampolla was dead.

As recently as Saturday the pope had received Cardinal Rampolla, who then expressed the hope of his health and spoke at length about many affairs. The pope later issued the following statement:

"Cardinal Rampolla was one of the greatest men in the church. He had become ever greater since he retired from state affairs.

"His holiness ordered that the highest honors should be paid to the deceased cardinal.

On Sunday morning last Cardinal Rampolla received Silas McBee and his wife of New York and discussed with them the question of bringing about a better understanding between all religious sects.

Cardinal Rampolla was the closest collaborator with Pope Louis the 13th in the movement for the reunion of the Christian church. When Pope Leo was dying a cablegram was received in Rome saying that the American Protestant congregations were praying for his recovery. Cardinal Rampolla took the dispatch immediately to the dying pontiff who informed Cardinal Rampolla to write some brief message to be read as consolation to him as it had proved that his scheme for the reunion of the churches was not a dream.

Yesterday morning Cardinal Rampolla performed the final rights of the work of restoration of the choir. Later he felt a general indisposition which developed into profound prostration. He refused, however, to allow his secretary to remain with him all night in the Vatican palace. St. Peter's where he had lived since he left the secretariat of state.

The cardinal's secretary, alarmed at his condition, consulted a physician. The latter visited the cardinal but discovered no serious symptoms and ordered him to take a complete rest. Later in the evening the cardinal grew worse and had great difficulty in breathing. He sent a message to his secretary and physician, but when they arrived the cardinal was dead.

The physician declared death due to angina pectoris. The cardinal's secretary performed the final rights of the church and then sent for the prelate's sister, Baroness Carolina Rampolla-Pezzano, and informed Cardinal Merry del Val.

The Double Blessing

The gladdest day of all the year is Christmas day. And the reason why is because the spirit of the Master is abroad in the land, and willing hands, prompted by loving hearts, are doing His work.

Your home and mine will share the thoughtful remembrance and glad remembrance of Christmas will ring through the house on Christmas morning. But there are other homes where good cheer will be a stranger unless you and I come to the rescue.

It is an old saying that "it is more blessed to give than to receive," and it is wonderfully true. If you are looking for this kind of a blessing just now, send your money and gifts to the Gazette office and the paper will help you find it.

The committee needs more funds.

ASSIGN TRANSPORT SHIP TO BE ARMY SANTA CLAUS FOR PHILIPPINE SOLDIERS

Washington, Dec. 17.—The United States Army transport Sherman has been designated by the War Department to be Santa Claus for the soldiers in Hawaii, Guam and the Philippines this Christmas. The transport Logan, weighted down with gifts, was also placed at Santa's disposal by the Department and is now bringing to these islands the remembrances from the soldiers stationed at Manila.

This, in effect, was the official statement issued by the War Department. The ship was made for a double reason. One was to give the purpose of informing the wives, mothers and sweethearts of the soldiers that the ships would bear their offerings to the proper persons. The second, however, was to warn the soldiers that they must pack their baskets with extremely substantial fixings or the department would not guarantee their safe delivery. Despite these precautions, the War Department officials have just received the following dispatches from the two transports: "Some of the presents are leaking."

MILD WEATHER NOW MEANS BIG CROPS FOR COMING YEAR

Present Warm Weather Means Good Mine for Wisconsin Farmers Says Prof. R. A. Moore.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 17.—Unprecedented warm weather at this season of the year is one of the greatest boons Wisconsin farmers have ever enjoyed, according to Prof. R. A. Moore, the farm crop expert of the college of agriculture. Returning from a tour of the state, he said that the unusually mild conditions now existing mean largely increased crop yields and other benefits next year for farmers. He stated that 80 or 85 per cent of all plow lands usually turned in the spring, have been cultivated in the fall, spring planting, and apparently the end is not yet in sight. If other conditions are right, and hail and devastating rains do not come, he predicted vast benefits in the way of increased yields in 1914 by getting plowing out of the way in the fall. Farmers will be able to plant early and harvest crops before rainous risks have time to make their appearance.

The plowing, according to Prof. Moore, is decidedly beneficial to the lands, which usually must be left to spring.

Favorable Prospects for 1914 Wisconsin crop prospects for 1914 are viewed optimistically by the crop reporters of the state board of agriculture, which issued its last monthly crop report of the year. Soil conditions are called the best in years. The average yield of clover seed for the state is 2.8 bushels as compared with 2.7 in 1912, and the quality is 92.8 per cent. The average yield of timothy seed is 1.1 bushels as compared with 1.0 in 1912, and quality approximated 96 per cent.

The percentage of the 1913 products still remaining in the hands of the farmer is as follows: Wheat, 80.8 per cent; corn, 73.4; oats, 52.3; clover, 89.8; timothy, 73.8; clover seed, 85.8; timothy seed, 57.2; beans, 81.3; peas, 45.6; potatoes, 62.5; sugar beets, 17.3; lamb hay, 83.0; alfalfa, 88.8; condition 98.5; clover, average 98.8, condition 97.8; alfalfa, average 103.5, condition 96.4; winter wheat, average 93.3; condition 97.0; winter rye, average 97.7, condition 98.2.

Livestock Being Fed. There remains in the hands of the farmer but 3.1 per cent of the 1912 crop of hogs. The percentage of carcasses for market as compared with 1912 is 96.5; of sheep 97.8; swine 96.4. The percentage of loss from hog cholera throughout the state was 3.6 per cent. The percentage of hogs slaughtered Nov. 10 was 65.3. The weather conditions subsequent to that date, however, have been extremely favorable and the percentage of hogs slaughtered Dec. 1 was reported at 71.4, up to the average of previous years.

A close canvass of the state shows that there is a total of 42,821 silos in the hands of Wisconsin farmers. Approximately one-fourth of the farmers in the state are using silos, and the indications are that double this number will be in use within the next two years.

Gangsters Convicted of Rosenthal Murder Take Case Before State Appeal Court in Last Chance.

Albany, Dec. 17.—Arguments on the appeal of the four men convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the New York gambler, began today before the state court of appeals. The appeal was similar to that already made in the Becker case.

It was asserted that the presence of three of the gun men, Whitey Louis, Lip the Blood and Lefty Louis, near the scene of the shooting was due solely to an arrangement they had to meet Jack Rosenthal to discuss the arrest of Zelig, another gun man. While they were engaged in conversation the fatal shot was fired.

FOREIGNERS COMPETE FOR ARMY CONTRACTS

New Tariff Law Enables Army and Naval Supply Officers From Markets of World.

Washington, Dec. 17.—Taking advantage of reductions under the Underwood tariff law, the army and navy adopted the general policy of purchasing supplies in the markets of the world instead of only in the American markets. The latest call for bids put out by the bureau of supplies and account is for 100,000 yards of dark blue cloth for trousers, jackets and caps for enlisted men.

While previous specifications for bids for that material stipulated that American wool must be supplied, in the present instance the specifications have no limit as to whether it shall be domestic or foreign grown. Officials say the old tariff measure practically excluded foreign bidders.

Navy department officials are therefore awaiting with interest the opening of the bids on January 27. After the contract has been awarded the material will be delivered to the provisions and clothing depot at the Brooklyn navy yard. As wool is on the free list a number of foreign bidders are expected and the department hopes for a substantial reduction in price.

The awarding of one contract for beef to Argentine packers several weeks ago led to a substantial decrease in the bids submitted by American packers.

INDIAN COURT CONDEMNNS HUMAN SACRIFICE OF WIDOWS ON FIRE ALTER

Calcutta, Dec. 17.—The High Court of Allahabad has emphasized its condemnation of the practice of "suttee"—the burning of a widow on her husband's funeral pyre—by increasing the sentences of two of the relatives of a woman who thus recently sacrificed herself. She was the widow of a wealthy Brahman and, according to the ancient rite, which has been prescribed by the Indian government since 1829, caused herself to be burnt alive on his pyre in the presence of the coroner. Five of the latter were arrested on the charge of "abetting suicide" and were sentenced to imprisonment by the trial court. In their appeal to the High Court they failed to substantiate the defense that the fire was lit by supernatural means, the flames rising from heaven, and the appeal was promptly dismissed and the increased sentence imposed.

CURRENCY MEASURE TO PASS IN SENATE BY SATURDAY NIGHT

This Is Now the Plan of Democratic Leaders.—Other Legislation Discussed.

Washington, Dec. 17.—Predictions that the currency bill would pass the senate before Saturday night were made today by Senators Bristow, Burton and Gallinger, republicans, after they had rejected overtures from Senator Kern, democratic leader for an agreement to vote not later than Friday night.

The republican senators are quite as anxious for a final vote on this bill as the democrats," said Senator Gallinger. "It is not the republicans who are delaying action or consuming more of the time."

The democratic leader was denounced as being "unfamiliar with the bill under consideration" and with not having followed the development of affairs in the senate.

The passage of the currency bill is proposed to eliminate the deposits guarantee from the currency bill, change the "lawful money redemption" to make treasury notes redeemable in gold and arrange if possible for a final vote Thursday night.

Conditions in the Michigan copper mining region were pictured before the house rules committee today by Mahoney of Denver, vice president of the vice president of the Western Federation of Miners, who charged that members of the supreme court of Michigan had been recently interested in the mining properties either as a stock holder or otherwise and that it was impossible to secure redress for the miners before the state courts.

Every new proposition in the postoffice appropriation bill including an item of two million dollars for increased pay for rural carriers has been eliminated by the house postoffice committee as an economy measure. A democratic caucus, probably will consider the bill where the postmaster general to investigate the advisability of government ownership of telephone and telegraph.

Mr. Bryan emphasized that the government should provide embassies so that poor men would not hesitate to accept the diplomatic posts.

NEW EUGENICS LAW DRAWN BY A DOCTOR

WAS SUPPOSED TO BE SPONSORED BY WISCONSIN PHYSICIANS SAYS ASSEMBLYMAN ROSA.

CLAIM FEE TOO SMALL

Bridegrooms of State Face Embarrassing Situation When Doctors Balk at Examinations for Three Dollars.

"These Wisconsin doctors have no license to grumble," declared Assemblyman C. D. Rosa of the second Rock county district when asked concerning the uproar that has become stirred up by physicians who claim that examinations for prospective bridegrooms under the new eugenics law cannot be given for $3, the fee prescribed by law.

"This eugenics law," continued Judge Rosa, "was introduced in the senate by Dr. G. A. Hoyt of Menominee Falls, Waushara county, and was supposed to be a measure backed by the physicians. It passed the legislature largely for the reason that it was urged by the doctors of the state. I don't see where they have any legitimate objection to make at this late date."

Local Doctors to Act.
It is probable that Rock county doctors at the annual meeting of their association which will be held at the city hall in this city on the night of December 30, will discuss the new law at some length and especially that feature which limits the fee which may be charged for the examination of prospective bridegrooms. According to Dr. E. B. Brown of Beloit, secretary of the society, the law will be brought up, but F. W. Van Kirk, president of the organization, declared that he had heard no comments on the new law one way or another except that it was generally agreed to be a step in the right direction.

"Limiting the fee for examinations to $3 seems hardly fair," said one local doctor in discussing the situation. "We receive $5 for life insurance examinations, and if any thorough tests should be necessary they would have to be made in some big city laboratory, and would cost $10 at the lowest. Figures of this kind are a good one, however, and it should do much to safeguard health."

Can't Get Married? What?
If doctors generally refuse to make examinations for the fee provided in the law, prospective bridegrooms in Wisconsin will face an embarrassing situation. How and where can they be examined? They must present their certificate to the county clerk before they can secure a license. It is a case of no certificate, no license. County Clerk H. W. Lee, who has given the law some consideration, is decisive on this point.

Another difficulty is added to the situation by the fact that if couples leave the state to get married in order to evade the law they will be prosecuted, so that elopements are made dangerous practices. Of course the fact that a couple left the state to be married might be construed by a court as evidence in itself that there was an intent to evade the law, which is another difficulty.

May Go into Court.
The law provides that in case there is a dispute regarding the findings of the medical examiner, "laboratory tests shall be made in the state laboratory of hygiene from material submitted by such examiner and the findings of the state laboratory shall be accepted as evidence of the presence or absence in the person examined of any venereal disease."

But further recourse is granted to the person who has been refused a clear bill of health. If he persists in his fitness for the marriage bonds he may file an application with the county clerk setting forth that he has not had a fair and impartial examination and that he is entitled to a certificate of health, and the county clerk shall then certify the same to the county court which must then consider the matter at once without expense to the applicant. As to just what course the court shall pursue the law is indefinite and no provision is made for a re-examination at the county's expense at the court's direction although it is possible to assume that such procedure might be within the court's discretion. A ruling by the attorney general is expected soon on this point.

Problem Is Complex.
As a result the road to nuptial bliss promises to be an uncertain one for Wisconsin couples beginning with January 1, 1914, when the law goes into effect. Already societies of physicians in Milwaukee and Racine counties have denounced the fee limiting portion of the law and agitation is spreading throughout the state, which is complicating a situation which was already made sufficiently difficult of execution.

"As I understand the law, a physician who is not equipped with laboratory facilities is not required to make the examination," says Dr. C. A. Harper, secretary of the state board of health. "By so refusing, the duty goes over to the county physician, and it is up to him to make the examination. Some of the applicants may pay him, and possibly others would not, and the county would have to make some sort of compensation to it worth his while to do the work."

I think the physician who is not prepared to make tests has the unquestioned right to refuse. At the same time, the applicant for a marriage license has the right to a health certificate. The administration of the law, however, does not come under the state board of health. It is a general statute."

Get a License Now.
There is one possible means of evasion of the examination requirement, however, but it applies only to those couples who plan to get married in the month of January. If you have that as your intention, get your license the latter part of December before the eugenics law goes into effect and be married any time within thirty days. The eugenics law applies to licenses which are taken out after January 1st. A license taken out in 1913 is good in January, under the new law or no eugenics law. But to persons contemplating matrimony later in the year, there is no advice that can be given.

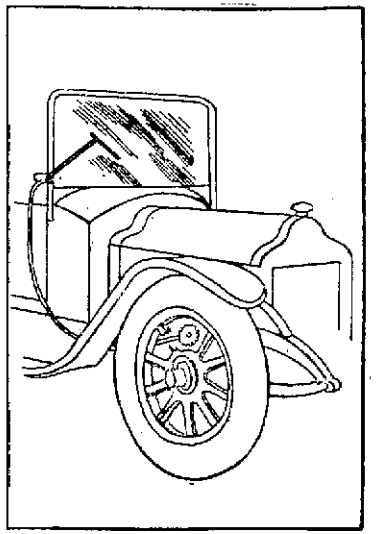

In the meantime there is a flourishing business being done in marriage licenses at the county clerk's office as the year wanes. The number for 1913 far surpasses all previous records and the total number issued will approach the 450 mark.

WIND SHIELD CLEANER

Attachment Keeps Glass Free of Snow and Moisture.

Now the days are coming when snow and sleet and rain leave a coating on the motorist's wind shield and makes driving hazardous. Those who are not familiar with this feature of winter motoring may have noticed it in winter trolley riding. But a man in the State of Washington has devised an attachment for motor cars that might probably be applied to trolleys. A rotary brush is connected with the wind shield frame so that it can be moved about over the outer surface of the glass. A tube leads to the motor of the car and flexible driving means running through this tube and operated by the motor, revolve the brush. As it takes only a few seconds to clean the glass in this way, there is no reason for having the vision clouded hereafter.

TWINE CUTTER

Knife on Ring That Slips Over Fingers of User.

A simple little device that will save some people a lot of time in a year has been patented by an Ohio man. It is for use in cutting twine. A band of wood or metal, with a spring portion to act as a clip, fits over two adjacent fingers of a man's hand. The under side has grooves for the fingers to fit into and pads to prevent chafing. In the middle of the band, between the fingers, is a cutting blade. No need here to look about for knife or scissors or even to bring the twine to a stationary cutter. When a bundle is tied, with the same movement that he completes the knot, the clerk can cut the twine by allowing it to slip between the fingers that wear the novel ring. For a person who ties up hundreds, or even thousands, of bundles a day, the time saved is considerable.

POTATO PLANTER

Automatically Spades Up Earth and Drops Tubers Into It.

Most ingenious is the potato planting machine patented by a German. A hollow wheel has a storage compartment on one side and a series of short spades along the rim. Adjacent to these spades is space for a single potato. With an outlet that opens and closes automatically, as the wheel revolves, it spades up little patches of earth and the potatoes, fed singly into the small compartments from the larger one, drop into the holes thus made. An arm that depends from the axle releases each potato as that part of the wheel passes it. Obviously, such a wheel is part of a running gear and the idea is to have one of the wheels on each side of a light cart, to which a horse is hitched. Thus two rows of potatoes are planted simultaneously as a man drives leisurely along.

LYMAN HOWE PICTURES.

The supreme marvels of Nature's handiwork as wrought in the Grand Canyon of Arizona will be reproduced by Lyman H. Howe at the Alvers Theater two days and nights on December 25 and 26. This mighty world-ruin and world-glory is truly the greatest wonder on earth. The next greatest is that Americans should still persist to go abroad to see world wonders, when by far the greatest of all is right here in their own country. All who have seen "the earth and the fulness thereof" are unanimous in declaring that the Grand Canyon so far transcends all other so-called wonders that there is Nothing else takes out soreness, lameness and stiffness

Limber up! Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle from any drug store and after using it just once, you'll forget that you ever had backache, lumbago or sciatica, because your back will never hurt or any more misery. It never disappoints and has been recommended for 60 years.

no comparison. There is nothing that approaches it even remotely anywhere on earth. If the falls of Niagara were installed in the Canyon you would need a field glass to locate them. True there is power and splendor in a night cataract or in the vast reaches of the boundless ocean. But for grandeur that is appalling and unearthly, the Grand Canyon completely eclipses everything. The vastness of the view amazes spectators quite as much as its transcendent beauty. The immeasurable devastation astonishes the mind, and the weird, bewildering, mysterious panorama stirs the emotions. The magnitude of the scene is almost too vast for human thought. It is indeed overwhelming. It is thrilling alike for its immensity and for its grandeur. It overawes beholders because the senses cannot encompass it, yet it enthalls the imagination by the magic of its beauty. It is here and not elsewhere that Nature has done her uttermost; it is here that her sublimest tragedy was enacted.

Among the twenty other big features to be presented are thrilling scenes of raging survivors during a terrific gale from an ocean greyhound dashed on the rocks and torn by raging seas; an aeroplane ride over Paris; wonders of deep sea life; a motor ride through the French Alps; a study in palmitry and many others.

Set Eggs in Casing That Has Electric Light Inside.

Since the pure food crusade has brought about a closer investigation into the antecedents of eggs there has been a marked increase in the invention of egg testing devices. One of the newest is the electrically lighted tester shown here and devised by a Canadian. A hollow upright has an electric lamp inside. At the top and near the top, on one side are openings and in the narrow space between the two openings is pivoted a mirror that consists of two leaves set at angles to each other, so that one always acts as a reflector to one of the openings when the other is used as a reflector. An egg is placed in the top opening, small end down, and the light turned on inside. With the aid of the mirror and the powerful condensed rays, the egg can be easily tested.

Sport Snap Shots

Larry McLean, the large and lanky Giant catcher, was playing with Seattle of the Pacific Coast league a few years ago when "white hopes" were first in demand. A sport writer on one of the Seattle dailies, finding news scarce and having a lively imagination, got together some art of Larry in fighting poses and toured him as the coming champion of the white man. The pictures looked great. McLean is a husky brute, being about 6 feet 5 in his neverholes and weighing well over two hundred. Much chuckling was done by both McLean and the sport writer when the thing appeared. However, a Portland scribe saw the story and had a hunch. He photographed Rubie Vickers, the old Athletic pitcher, in similar poses and opined in his yarn that Vickers could knock and cheer Seattle catcher on his stool. "Look here, Larry," says the Seattle scribe, "look here. We can't let that Portland guy get away with us. The next time you play at Portland you walk over to the Portland bench, carry two pair of gloves with you and throw a pair down in front of this guy Vickers. Then dare him to put 'em on." McLean deliberated. There's always some sort of a gawwhack to your hunches," says Larry. "Supposing this here Vickers party should pick 'em up?"

The popular notion that football stars after winding up a glorious career at college amid the cheers of admiring thousands must settle down to $12 jobs in an office is not exactly the right one. Undoubtedly there have been many of them who after a season of acclaim have been obliged to spend the next several years or more in modest fashion. On the other hand there are stars beyond number who have knocked the bottom out of this fallacy. Someone recently had the energy to look up the dope on this and the facts show that lots of the best of our football

Married Men Bowl Two Eight Hundred Games Defeating Singles Shirt and Overall Trim Trim Golden Eagle.

For the third time this season the "benefits" of the Miller's alleys defied the "singles" winning last night's contest by seven-four pins after an exciting and close game. The bachelors won the first game by thirty-nine pins, but were outclassed in the last two frames, the married men rolling eight hundred games. Abraham was high man with a total of 214, which he hopes to repeat Friday night against the Line City bowlers. Heise of the married men bowled in good form last night, having a brand new pair of shoes, without his unlucky string.

The Golden Eagles were defeated by the Shirt and Overall men by 159 pins. J. Levy of the losers is seriously considering challenging the blind school, the team having not won a contest this year. Mott was high man with 156. The Overall men won all three frames. Last night's scores:

SECOND DRILL IS A STRENUOUS ONE

High School Basketball Squad, Numbering Twenty, Battle for Two Hours Yesterday—Many Absent.

Aspirants for the local high school five appeared for the second practice of the season yesterday afternoon, and before Coach Curtis called the men to order, twenty candidates, a few of them veterans, were out in suits. The material is excellent and the scrimmage yesterday revealed many new possible stars on the floor. Dearborn showed up in wonderful form, his scrappy style of playing suiting Curtis in every way. Beard is playing good ball, his guarding ability being unusual for a player with so little experience. Badger is being watched with interest by Curtis and the students.

out tonight.

Atwood, Dalton and Stewart were the three tournament men who appeared for drill. Atwood showed a decided increase in speed. His remarkable dribbling yesterday, combined with his speed, makes him even a stronger asset to the 1914 five, than he was on last year's team. His style of playing is about the same. Dalton counted his usual number of baskets yesterday. Repeatedly, he dribbled through the mass of men, down the floor like a flash, Stewart adding him in the counting. Stewart is not far from landing a regular berth. If he keeps up his work, shown yesterday, there will be little doubt as to his making the five.

The material for the other two positions namely the guards, lies in a sea of doubt at the present time. While Stickey is one of the fastest men on dribbling that the school has this year, with a quick thinker, he lacks the weight. He will be tried out at forward and guard. Rau, a likely candidate for guard, has considerable weight, but whether he can travel in fast company remains to be seen. He has a fair amount of experience, with a good eye for the basket. Stickey at running guard, and Rau at sticking guard, would make an ideal combination at that.

But the five is by no means picked. Barnes, Richards, Badger, Beard, Jones, Dearborn and Smiley are hard men to back up against. Coach Curtis has no statements to make until he sees all of the material work at their best, which will delay the picking of the regular five, until after the alumni game on January 9th.

PERTINENT REMARKS.

J. L. Sturtevant of Wausau, whose name has been mentioned as a possibility for the republican nomination for governor, declines the honor and at the same time makes some very pertinent remarks about the present management of state affairs or mismanagement. Mr. Sturtevant, he it is remembered, is a politician of the old school. The school which promulgated the doctrines of the running of the government at the least possible expense to the taxpayers and did not recommend the establishment of expensive commissions to increase the state pay-roll.

Of course the remarks this gentleman from Wausau dares to make will not be appreciated by the present administration but still the general public will find lots of good common sense in his reasons why he could not consider even having his name mentioned as a gubernatorial candidate. In an interview in which he sets forth these views Mr. Sturtevant says:

"I am not a candidate for governor. I am out of joint with the times. I am old fashioned enough to believe in the theory that 'that state which is least governed is best governed' and the present tendency is exactly the reverse.

"Wisconsin has a multiplicity of commissions, with more in the process of formation. The present day theory is that the state must stand in loco parentis to all its people; that it must supervise and regulate everything we do; that there must be no freedom of thought or individual action; that practical men should have little to say as to the conduct of their affairs, but must defer to the edicts of theorists.

"The increase in the state's expenses in twelve years from $4,000,000 a year to $15,000,000 a year (and it is possible that $18,000,000 will be the total this year) is all out of proportion to the increase in the population of the state and out of proportion to the benefits its people have received from so-called 'progressive' legislation.

"This is only a portion of the increase in the cost of living which has been brought about by this 'advanced' legislation during the last twelve years. This is the portion borne by the state as a state, and an increase of equal amount has been forced upon individuals. This is not taking into account the immense amount of the valuable time of business men, manufacturers and bankers, which they are obliged to devote to filling out blanks and forms at the behest of the various commissions. Acting as the laboratory of the nation in trying out this radical legislation, Wisconsin has brought up a vast army of office-holders who create nothing, produce nothing and who practically do nothing except draw salaries.

"Members of this army have forced through legislation, under the guise of reform, which would give them the jobs they sought. They get 35 cents of every dollar appropriated for public purposes and are looking longingly at the other 65 cents. Their principal efforts are toward the organization of more commissions, with more employees and more expense. And now they are asking for a new constitution which would make these commissions permanent, that they may be secure in their jobs for all time."

"I am not in sympathy with the thought that this state should be governed by commissions. These commissions to be manned by experts, who are to be graduates from the university; in other words, that the state be under the absolute control of the university. I am old fashioned enough to believe that the state is greater than the university; is greater than any of its dependencies. I believe that men who are in business know more about their business than any man can who spends his life inside of four walls on University hill. I am absolutely opposed to the university, through its college of political economy, teaching students that the state government, which gives them their education, is wrong in theory and fact and that socialism or anarchy is right.

"The constitution expressly prohibits the state going in debt over $100,000. I believe in abiding by it both directly and indirectly. I believe that the state's expenses should be reduced to a minimum; that a budget should be prepared giving an estimate of what would be necessary for each biennial term and no more money raised than called for by the budget; the present plan is to constantly devise new schemes of taxation, indirect, if possible, so as to raise more money each year and after it is raised, find some way of spending it.

"If I were governor I would insist that much of the socialistic legislation of the last ten years be wiped off the statute books; that the state go back to a sound financial system and show some sanity in future legislation.

"As I said, I am out of joint with the times. I don't believe that you can tax yourself rich or that you can change human nature by process of law; therefore, I am not a candidate for governor."

THIS IN KANSAS.

The corn crop of Kansas this year is about 18,000,000 bushels, as compared with 176,000,000 bushels last year. The state enjoyed 296 days of sunshine which resulted in a drought that ruined the corn crop. This led to a good deal of discussion throughout the country, and Kansas resented much that was said, along the line of sympathy. A writer says in reality: "Yet Kansas is not poor, although somewhat chastened. And her enemies, or what Secretary Cournutt calls 'our fool friends,' had better get out of range when he takes up his blunderbuss to kill what he calls 'the drought-cyclone-blightard-grasshopper-greenbug fictions promulgated by our competitors.' This shows what Kansas has to labor against, in order to keep other commonwealths from getting any of her 1,685,021 people. In spite of the aforesaid hyphenated slanders, the state during the current year has gained 16,325 persons. Kansas is a state of big farms and small towns, as well as of frequent political revolutions.

"Kansas was born in warfare, and does not mind fighting for the fun of it every year or two.

"And she has resources of her own. With a total value of farm products and livestock of $507,000,000, Kansas banks on September 1 had $207,000,000 in cash. To quote Mr. Cournutt further:

"The heart is not easily taken out of a state that has an average of $100 in the banks and $750 worth of livestock on the farms for every family; has 87 counties without any insane, 54 without any feeble-minded, 96 without any inebriates, 38 without any poor-houses, 53 without any prisoners in jail, 65 without any convicts in the state prison, and dozens in which no jury has been called to try a criminal case in ten years. This is Kansas."

"The idea of bringing Christmas cheer to families that otherwise might be neglected is rapidly taking form. The committee which has the work in charge for the Gazette, headed by Father Henry Willmann, are, however, experiencing a lack of needed funds to complete the work. It is hoped that this will be remedied and that sufficient money will be donated to make the work proposed a success. Checks may be left at the Gazette office and toys will be received here to help the good work along.

Now that the public can watch the workings of the construction of the new Milwaukee street bridge, their admiration for the work already accomplished and that remaining to be done increases. When completed the bridge will be an ornament to the city that every taxpayer will take pride in.

There will be no national convention to re-organize the republican party. This re-organization will be accomplished by the national committee itself and the result would be the same. This is the final decision of the get-together meeting in Washington on Tuesday of the party leaders.

Old Santa Claus' mail box, which departs from the Gazette office this evening, is well filled with missives from his little friends throughout the city and surrounding country. It is hoped that he may pay each writer a visit before he completes his circle of the globe on Christmas eve.

Wisconsin Bull Moose leaders have decided not to put a tickler in the field this coming election and it is intimated they will support McGovern and his aspirations for the United States senate.

Applying Logic.

Janie was visiting in a family orthodox to the point of deprecating even the public saying of grace by the feminine members of the household. Janie, the matter having been explained to her in the long wait ensuing upon the father's breakfast tardiness, pondered and finally uttered an impertinent ultimatum. "Well, if women can eat out loud, I don't see why they can't pray out loud when they say 'Thank you God, for the food!'"

On the Spur of the Moment

Do It Now. Don't delay your Christmas shopping. Hurry with your Christmas hopping. Don't procrastinate. Don't be late. Don't be tardy, don't be lazy. Or you'll drive the clerks all crazy. Be a good guy, be a daisy. Don't postpone the date. Don't be grouchy, don't be surly. Do your Christmas shopping early. Put your hat on, Go! Spend all of your dough. That will end an ordeal trying. You'll be through with all your buying.

"I'll save many days of flying madly to and fro. Tardy shoppers fight insantly And win out by muscle, mainly. When they try to find their things they have in mind. Shins are barked and clothing shattered. Tempers spoiled and nerves are battered.

No one then is kind. There's no Christmas spirit in it. Listen, to the clerks a minute. They, you will allow. Must be hard, somehow. Don't be one to drive them dizzy. Have a heart for Maymie and Lizzie. Do not wait until they're busy. Buy your presents now.

Deserted.

I stood beneath a lattice long And strummed the mandolin; She didn't seem to like my song. She heeded not my din.

Another fellow won the maid And left me all forlorn; It seems he played his serenade Upon his auto horn.

How to Carve a Goose.

The first step in the carving of a goose is to get a life insurance policy. You can do this providing you have the price and can pass a medical examination. Some men prepare to carve a goose by joining a fraternal insurance society. Then you put on a rubber suit and go into the room alone with the goose. The only implements you need are a carving knife, crosscut saw, crowbar, four sticks of dynamite, one for each corner of the goose; one ax, a hammer and nails, jackplane, chisel and a burglar outfit.

First remove the wings. You will find that the wings do not hook on under the collar button of the goose as they do on the turkey, but are fastened on the bridge of goose between the pilot house and the walking beam. You tackle the wings with your ax, but you will probably have to make several strokes, as the goose is a very active bird. In his stuffed and roasted state, and when you hit him back of the clock on the dining room mantel, or on the top shelf of the china closet. After starting the removal of the wings with the ax, you can finish up with the crowbar and crosscut saw, after making the goose firmly to the floor. The legs you remove with the dynamite and you once the wings with the burglar outfit in order to get at the dressing. Burglar and fireproof geese must, of course, be handled by more strenuous methods.

This is about all that can be said in a general way. Of course, every goose has some characteristic that no other geese have and the carver must use his own judgment in overcoming them. The goose we carved disappeared through the window after we hit him the fourth time with the ax and we think he landed in our next door neighbor's chimney, as his stove has smoked ever since.

REV. GEHL'S LECTURE ON MUTE EDUCATION

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS HALL
TAXED TO HOLD AUDIENCE.

CONVERSATION BY SIGN

Rev. Gehl Gives Interesting Lecture
Concerning Welfare of Deaf Mutes and How They Are Educated.

Before an audience that taxed the Knights of Columbus hall last night, Rev. Eugene Gehl, missionary and lecturer of St. John's Institute for the deaf at St. Francis, Wis., located just outside of Milwaukee, delivered a lecture on "The Silent World," that was a bit out of the ordinary in the trend of its subject and mode of delivery.

Possessed of a deep insight into human nature, and a quiet fund of humor, Rev. Gehl caught and held the attention of his audience throughout his recital of very interesting facts concerning that large class of people who spin their threads of life under the heavy pall of silence—the deaf mutes.

He said in part: "Tonight, friends, I ask you to go with me in spirit to the Silent World, to that of God's poor who are most afflicted and for whom we are exerting but feeble efforts—the unfortunate deaf mutes. These beings who live in the darkest of mental light, who are like a man growing in the dark for safety; those individuals bereft of the ordinary consolations of religion and friendship.

"Although much is done for them, their lot of best is a pitiful, dreary, bleak one. Their ears are closed and sealed so sound cannot penetrate, no it ever so shrill. The strain of sweet melodies that sweep the chords of our heart in different moods are not for them and the orator's most urgent appeal cannot move them; when sickness lays its heavy hand upon them, their tones of sympathy fall unheeded—they must suffer alone.

"Therefore, I lend me a hearing when I ask you to take an interest in the silent world about you. Let them feel that you are a friend, that your sympathy is with them and by kindness help—a little—to alleviate their suffering.

"What would you do if you suddenly lost your hearing and speech; your ability to tell another your thoughts, feelings or desires. If a mother, your first born clasped close to your heart you could not give expression in words of the love you had for this wonderful gift of God's to you. Reflect a moment—would you do?

"And men, supposing you would have to go about earning your daily bread for your loved ones at home, forced by signs that few understand, to make your thoughts known—what would be your sensations?

"As early as the seventh century Catholic priests taught the deaf mutes to articulate sounds and syllables. Benedictine Fathers were among the first to take up the work systematically. In 1220, one of these worthy fathers wrote much regarding his experiences with the deaf and invented a system of visible signs, representing to the sight the sound of letters. This system was called the manual alphabet and is in use today.

"After them came the truly great apostle of the deaf, the French priest, Abbé de l'Epée in 1788. He can be truthfully called the most interesting person in the deaf mute education.

"In the course of his work he noticed, as does every instructor, that deaf mute children even before receiving any instructions from anyone, while at play and at other times, communicate with each other in pantomime making use of certain natural gestures indicative of objects, their quality and action, and this decided him in his idea of using a sign language as the means of their instruction. Words are the conventional signs for our ideas, why not conventional gestures for the signs of ideas? He concluded that their self-invented, natural language of signs would be a great aid in their instruction.

"His method aroused great interest throughout Europe and was very successful. Many flocked to his school to acquire his method and he was eager and willing for his work to be large to profit by his efforts, welcoming all to become sharers in his success for the general betterment of this sadly neglected class.

"About this time America arrived upon the scene through Dr. Thomas Gallaudet who applied to the Braidwood family at Edinburgh, so he taught their method of instructing the deaf, but as they seemed to be desirous of reaping financial gain, he would not submit to the terms they demanded of him and turned to the school of Abbe de l'Epée, receiving instructions from Father Sicard. When Gallaudet returned to America, Father Sicard sent with him as his assistant his best pupil—Laurent Clerc.

"Arriving home they opened the first school for the deaf in this country at Hartford, Connecticut, in 1817. The success was so marked that other states were stimulated to make provision for their deaf subjects. At present we have spread over our country 156 schools including boarding and day schools with an attendance of 12,000 pupils. Of this number fifteen of the schools are under the management of Catholics with an attendance of 1,200 pupils.

"The Institute for deaf mutes at St. Francis was opened in 1876 by Rev. Theodore Bruenner and in spite of all its vicissitudes has prospered. It has the enviable record of never having refused entrance to any child who was unable to pay. You see its the eventual good of the child they are after, not the cash.

"The faculty includes three priests, nine sisters of St. Francis and one lay teacher. Seven hundred pupils have enrolled since the opening of this school's doors. At present fourteen states are represented and one little chap claims as his home far-off Porto Rico.

"Persons who lose their hearing at an early age or who are born deaf, are also mutes, therefore, the term 'deaf-mute'; the primary defect is deafness; muteness is the consequence of this. The ordinary child hears sounds and then learns to imitate them, generally learning to repeat what they hear. Other people say—thus have we learned to talk. The poor little deaf child hears nothing, consequently cannot hear, imitate and remain deaf.

"The very term 'deaf and dumb' is unfortunate and embodies as it does the error that the affliction is two-fold. True it affects two organs, but one organ alone is the cause. The ear is the guide and directress of the tongue and when she is doctored to perpetual silence the tongue is included in the ban; tho' it could by any means restore to the ear the faculty of hearing, the tongue would readily learn for itself to fulfill its proper office. The tongue is not a congenital adventitious or acquired and congenital. To give a scientific explanation of the various causes of deafness would take too much time, allow me to mention the more important diseases from which deafness may result, or has resulted. Scarlet fever and cerebral spinal meningitis, which is also called brain or spotted fever are the two greatest factors in robbing children of their hearing. Statistics show that over 7,000 have lost their hearing through scarlet fever, over 6,000 through spinal meningitis. Among the adults catarrh, malaria and typhoid fever cause many cases of deafness.

"The congenitally deaf, those deaf from birth up to a few years ago was believed to number all others, and of over 14,000 born so, over 4,000 were found to have been born of parents closely related. The necessity and wisdom of warning against inter-marriage of blood relations is thus clearly shown.

"The typical deafmute is a mentally normal person deprived of hearing at an early age, but only thirteen per cent being feeble minded. The child who is born deaf or who becomes so previous to his second year must be taught by special scientific methods as the natural way of picking up speech by imitating the speech of his elders is denied him.

"The deaf languages are taught by the visible language of pictures, signs and gestures; finger and alphabet and writing and articulation and lip reading which gives them the use of spoken language.

"The purpose of education for the deaf, as for the hearing, is for the attainment of efficiency, welfare and happiness. When the deaf go out into the world to earn a living speech becomes a vital necessity; it has an economic value for it tends to add to a deaf person's powers.

"The facility of speech acquired by the deaf naturally depends upon the amount of training they have had and the age at which this training began. The deaf child ordinarily should be entered in school at the age of five years. Under proper and adequate methods of instruction, his speech when he leaves school is little or no more difficult to understand than English as spoken by a foreigner.

"The school curriculum at our Institute of St. Francis includes not only the secular branches as reading, writing, arithmetic, history and geography, but also the teaching of the principles of religion. This has been an admitted helpful influence as a large per cent of the deaf mutes are strong willed and headstrong and the knowledge of God aids greatly in governing them and building up their character.

"From personal experience and study gained in the last four years I venture to say that the classing of the deaf amongst the unfortunates is a harmful thing. It is the reality of a very grateful people. Happiness is another of their good traits. Shakespeare's words: 'Frame your mind to mirth and merriment, which bars a thousand harms and lengthens life,' should be the motto we learn from their disposition.

"Treat the deaf as you would treat your neighbor, courteously, kindly. Though his ears are closed, his eyes are sharp, he is bright, alert; he is oft times we are dull, sluggish, our ears are open, but our eyes are closed, as is proved by the manner in which we let many splendid opportunities slip by.

"Almost infinite patience is necessary in the training of these children as only those who have actually experienced the sorrow in the lives of their own dear ones can realize the sorrow contained in the words 'deaf mutes.'

"In conclusion could I but draw you a word picture of the faithful plant of the deaf children, the helplessness to aid their stricken children; could I instill within your heart a spark of sympathy for this class less fortunate than you in their own most for the battle of life; I would feel indeed well repaid for my little talk concerning 'The Silent World.'

TRAINING SCHOOL NOTES.

Salaries received by young women graduates of the home-economics course of the University of Wisconsin range from $7.00 to $10.00 for the first year's work up to $15.00 for the third year of employment.

The following graduates of the training school were present on Saturday at the concert, dinner and conference: Mabel Francis, Margaret Vickerman, Nellie Maloy, Frances McCabe, Anna Fortin, Nora McCarthy, Jennie Hansen, Mary Cullen, Lydia Sommerfelt, Flora Robinson, Cora Thorson, Mabel Synnagard, Elsie Gooch, Margaret Kelly, Minnie Milbrandt, and Rachel Erlinger. Sixteen in all, and only five of the class of 1912.

Besides the graduates of the school the following persons were also present: Supr. and Mrs. O. D. Antisdel, Sadie Clapp, May E. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Lowth, C. E. Moore, Josephine Fitzgerald, Ella Jacobson, and Lois Runagard.

The dinner on Saturday was prepared under the direction of Miss Ella Jacobson who, with the assistance of one of the students, served a most satisfactory meal.

The assembly room is now prettily decorated with various Christmas articles made by the students. The class of 1913 voted on Saturday to present a suitable picture to the school, the same to hang on the walls of Miss Jacobson's room.

The following country teachers not graduates of the school were present Saturday: Mabel Weaver, Theresa Sievert, Calista Dyson, Rhoda Sherman, Esther Kammer, Grace Mullen, Grace Knitlan, Lois Runagard and Minnie Hyland.

Country teachers would do well to keep on hand at all times a good supply of good stationery, one and two cent stamps, and post cards. It is always courteous to acknowledge favors by return mail.

C. W. McCarthy, the father of one of the graduates of the training school writes in part as follows: "I make it a practice to read your notes, and send an expression of my idea of its good work. I am delighted with its management and its progress. The school should have more students. Don't parents have no given the school consideration? Mr. McCarthy then considers the importance of training in public speaking and in conversational power."

Miss Mary Hayes began her work as a student teacher in the school on Monday, teaching but one class a day at present.

The training school closes on Friday, Dec. 19, for a ten day vacation, opening again on Monday, Dec. 23.

The principal will be especially pleased to answer questions sent in by rural teachers on the subject of civics.

There should have been three times as many teachers present at the conference on Saturday. The training school is sometimes at a loss to understand the lack of response on the part of some rural teachers. If the teachers will respond to calls in their own interests they will make greater progress. Some people are excusable, and some have no good reason for staying away.

Heart to Heart Talks

By CHARLES N. LURIE

MOVED OR MOVER?

Are you among the movers of the world, or are you one of the moved? How or why the world was set in motion eons ago, in the unresting whirl which is one of the basic facts of existence, no one knows. But it is not too fanciful a thought to believe that human energy keeps it going.

Some men give forth that energy; others absorb it.

In which class are you?

Must the world give you a shove to keep you going, or do you push your self? Perhaps you are among the workers who not only supply the energy to keep themselves going, but create a surplus.

In every form of machinery invented by man some percentage of energy is lost in wasted motion, in friction, which should be foreseen and prevented. The same engine will be one in which there is no friction.

Friction is loss. The same is true of that great engine, the world. Everywhere we look we see unnecessary labor and needless rubbing. When we learn to eliminate these we shall learn how to rule the earth wisely.

In the meantime it behooves every man to be a creator of sufficient energy for himself and for the supplying of others who are deficient. Until the ideal age comes there will be mental and moral and physical defects who will need some force actuating them from outside to keep them going.

Don't be like little Joe in "Black House."

Poor Joe was always being "moved on." His enemy the policeman would not let him rest long in one place. He was moved on and moved on until he left London to die in the country.

Move yourself on or the world will move you on!

The world cannot wait for those who cumber its path. Sooner or later it moves on past them. Too often its progress is over their bodies.

If you are a mechanic, move on by doing the best work of which you are capable. If you are a housewife, keep your household going swiftly and smoothly in the paths of economy and cleanliness and cheerfulness. If you are a physician or a lawyer, move on by keeping abreast with the latest developments in your profession.

Method is life; life is motion. Stoppage and decay are death.

Well Circulated. "Do your folks take the Magazine?" asks the solicitor who represents a periodical celebrated for the sort of stories it features. "Do, ya?" repeats the boy addressed. "We take four—one that father hides from mother and sister, one that mother hides from sister and father, one that sister hides from father and mother, and one copy that none of 'em know I have in my room."—Life.

Habits. Like flakes of snow that fall unperceived upon the earth, the seemingly unimportant events of life succeed one another. As the snow gathers together, so our habits are formed. No single flake that is added to the pile produces a sensible change. So it is by little things that a man's character is molded.—Exchange.

Stomach Troubles Disappear. Stomach, liver and kidney troubles, weak nerves, lame back and female ills disappear when Electric Bitters are used. Thousands of women would not be without a bottle in their home. Eliza Pool of Depew Okla. writes: "Electric Bitters raised me from a bed of sickness and suffering and has done me a world of good. I wish every suffering woman could use this potent remedy and find out as I did, just how good it is." As it has helped thousands of others, it surely will do the same for you. Every bottle guaranteed 50c and $1.00. At all Druggists. H. E. Bucklen & Co. Philadelphia or St. Louis.

SLOT MACHINES

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

A SLOT MACHINE is an automatic clerk, who works for nothing a week and twice upon hours at that. The slot machine can be taught a great many interesting tricks, such as telling the weight of a total stranger and detecting a counterfeit dime without bling it. But it is not very intelligent. This is why the slot machine is so popular. It cannot tell the customer that Tuli Frutti chewing gum has gone out altogether and that all the people who are fashionable are buying the new Wigglesaw brand. The slot machine is so stupid that it has to sell its customer exactly what he wants. In consequence it is greatly beloved and is multiplying with astonishing rapidity.

The slot machine is now found wherever civilization is rampant, and it lends a busy and useful life selling gum, peanuts, candy, bars, sandwiches, popular airs, drinking cups, matches, souvenir cards and telephone calls. It also takes photographs, tells fortunes and enables the gay and venturesome young sampler to spend happy evenings feeding hard-earned quarters into a small slit in the face of an innocent looking and close mouthed machine.

The slot machine is a valuable invention but like nearly everything else it ought to be regulated. If the slot machines were taken out of the cigar stores and put in the postoffices where the American people wait each year millions of hours while tired clerks sell postage stamps as if they were rare paintings, much good would be done. If the gas machine were to be perfected so that it would accept a dollar and make change instead of compelling the householder to search frantically through the neighborhood for a quarter when the light goes out, the national output of profanity would be decreased several per cent. A lot of telephone slot machines are demanding dimes, whereas they would grow fat and prosperous on nickels. On the other hand, automatic pianos should have slots which would accept nothing less than dollars.

In the course of time, science may perfect a method of providing chronic conversationalists with slots necessitating the deposit of a dime before the wearer begins to talk. It would be inspiring to watch an idle friend sitting dumb in the office of a busy man while waiting for the latter to deposit a dime. Still one would tire of this sight after a month or two and go away before the dime was deposited.

MAKING YOUR MIND MIND.

IF YOU had an employee who could not work except under certain favorable conditions, and who frequently disobeyed your orders, what would you do to him?

Discharge him, of course. And yet how many of us, all our lives long, tolerate in our employ, a slovenly worker, who seldom works up to his full efficiency, who is always protesting that he can't work under this or that condition, and who often deliberately disobeys our orders in one way or another? As it happens, we could not discharge this employee, but we could train him, if he would only take the trouble, for the employee I speak of is each man's mind.

"I can't read when there is anyone talking in the room," says one person. "I can never think of two things at once," says another.

"I can't write when there is a clock ticking," says an author. "I can't concentrate on my work when I am going out in the evening," says the little stenographer lady.

"I can never listen to every word of a lecture," confesses an educated woman. "My mind is sure to wander off at least once or twice."

All these people are unconsciously admitting the slovenliness and inefficiency of a lifelong servant, and hence their own inefficiency in training him.

I wish more attention could be given in the schools to teaching children to train their own minds. The habit of mind control is more valuable than almost any amount of learning, but except in indirect ways, such as forcing the child to apply himself to difficult and uninteresting studies, no effort is made to teach it.

And yet one cannot blame the much-bearded school system after all, for mind control is one of those things which no one can do for us but ourselves. The only thing an outsider can do is to point out the necessity and wisdom of such training.

The time to commence disciplining this unruly servant is the very first moment he shows the need of discipline. When the young student discovers that he cannot study when anyone is in the room, his first instinct is to humor his mind and find an unoccupied place, but every time he does that he weakens his mind control. The thing to do, if he wishes to be master of his mind, is to stay right in the room and train his mind to work, in spite of the distraction. The ultimate gain in efficiency will be many times worth the temporary discomfort and loss.

No man can be really efficient unless his will is completely master of his mind. And a well-trained mind, even if it is not exceptionally brilliant and powerful, is often quite as valuable a factor toward success as a brilliant mind which has not been well trained.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

FOR wisdom is better than riches. And all the things that may be desired are not to be compared unto it. A mind content both crown and kingdom is.

There is always time for courtesy. —Emerson.

PRACTICAL HINTS.

When making hard soap, get a good patent lye. Follow the directions for making soft soap, put in three pints of water and five pounds of fat and a handful of borax. Mark off into cakes before it hardens.

Devonshire Cream.—This is so delicious that more people should know how it is prepared. Put two quarts of fresh milk on the stove in a pan of cold water, bring very slowly to the scalding point and keep it hot for nearly an hour, being careful to never allow it to boil; then remove from the stove, set in cold water with ice for six hours. By this time the cream is all collected on top, which is removed with a skimmer and kept until ready to serve.

Rice Flour Pound Cake.—Cream a quarter of a cup of butter with one cup of powdered sugar, add the beaten yolks of two eggs, one teaspoonful of vanilla, the grated rind of a lemon, and half a cup of cold water. Mix thoroughly and add one and a half cups of rice flour, sifted with one and a half teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Add the whites of the eggs beaten stiff. Bake in small gem pans and cover with fancy frosting. Garnish with candied cherries.

A teaspoonful of lye in a bottle of clothes will whiten them wonderfully.

Vinegar and salt will clean brass well, though it is not pleasant to use, if you have any broken places in the skin of the hands.

German Cream Soup.—Cut thin slices of bread as thin as shavings, put them with a small amount of butter into a saucepan and stir until well browned, then pour over enough boiling water to make the amount of soup needed. Add salt to taste, and let the water boil up; then remove the saucepan and stir in a large cup of sweet cream. If a richer soup is desired, add more cream to the soup. Be sure to have it well salted, or it will taste flat. This is a good recipe to give the sick.

Scraped beef is another good dish to serve the sick. Scrape round steak with the sharp edge of a spoon; season well and cook in a hot frying pan.

Passing of the Horse.

A letter in the New York Times tells of a stenographer whose eyes gave out and who turned to the farm for a livelihood. "I had $300," he says, "but was possessed of a good, strong wife, who did all the heavy work, such as plowing, planting, splitting wood, etc. A wife is an absolute necessity—on the farm. I am a southerner by birth," he adds, "and am therefore naturally ambitious."—The Masses.

FAMILY OF VANISHED BROOKLYN GIRL FEAR HER CAPTURE BY WHITE SLAVERS

Miss Jessie McCann.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) How can I overcome bashfulness?

(2) Please tell me how I can reduce my weight? Please name several things I ought only to eat.

(3) Why is it some people are so much fatter than others?

(4) Keep informed upon what is going on around you and in the rest of the world (you can do this by reading the newspapers carefully). Then you will have something to talk about. When you are in company think of other people, not yourself, and try to talk about interesting things. Let others do some talking, too. You can be just as popular if you are a good listener.

(5) You can get thin if you want to live on nothing but milk. It can be done, but you'll get tired of it. Eat anything you like, but only what you want to eat, if you wish to be thin. Those are best two recipes I can give you.

(6) It is just as natural for some people to be fat as it is for some to be thin, and they go against nature and make themselves sick if they try to be thin.

Miss Jennie McCann, a beautiful young social worker and the daughter of a wealthy Brooklyn (N. Y.) merchant, mysteriously disappeared on December 4. Since then every effort has been made to find her, but in vain. Her family fear that she has been captured by white slavers and dragged into the hideous underworld of New York.

Household Hint

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

When baking a cake, remove the pan carefully from the oven and hold to the ear. If it still sings, put it back to bake a little longer. When done it will not sing. This is a sure test.

Sheets that are wearing out should have their selvage sides sewn together, then cut down the hemmed.

When washing colored clothes add a little vinegar and a handful of salt to the water to brighten the colors and prevent their running.

Chicken salad is delicious if mixed with small pieces of green pepper and mayonnaise. Press the meat into pepper cases.

THE TABLE.

Salt-Rising Bread.—Dissolve a half-teaspoonful of salt in two cups of scalding water, and beat in gradually enough flour to make a very soft dough. Beat for ten minutes, cover and set in a very warm place for eight hours. Now stir a teaspoonful of salt into a pint of lukewarm milk and add enough flour to make a stiff batter before working into the risen dough. Mix thoroughly, cover, and set again in a warm place to rise up to a very light. Turn into a wooden bowl and kneed in enough flour to make the batter of the consistency of ordinary bread dough. Make into loaves and set these to rise, and when light, bake.

Fried Trout.—Clean, wipe inside and out, pepper and salt; roll in flour and cracker crumbs and fry in deep, hot fat, always recollecting to heat this gradually to boiling point before the fish go in. Or having cleaned and dried them, roll in salted and peppered meal; then fry.

Green Pea Froth.—Drain a can of peas and lay the peas in cold water for one hour. Add two cups of cold water, one teaspoonful of sugar, and one slice of onion; boil twenty minutes and rub through a vegetable press. Heat two tablespoonfuls of butter, add one of flour, mix with one teaspoonful of salt and one-eighth of a teaspoonful of pepper. Stir into the boiling mixture and add two cups of scalded milk heated with a bit of soda. Strain before serving.

Boiled Frosting for Cakes.—Put into a saucepan half a cupful of water and a pound of granulated sugar and let it boil slowly. Do not stir. When it spins a thread from the tip of a spoon dipped into it, take it from the fire. Set it aside until it is blood-warm, and then stir steadily until you have a smooth white cream. Apply it to the cake as you would any other icing. If made properly it will harden on the cake if it is not much before it is used set it in warm water until it softens. Flavor it while stirring.

Nut Cake.—Cream one cupful of butter with two cupfuls of sugar, add a cupful of cold water, the well-beaten yolks of four eggs, a half-teaspoonful of ground mace and cinnamon, mixed, and three cupfuls of prepared flour, stirred in alternately with the stiffened whites of the eggs. Do not get the batter too stiff. Now add two cupfuls of hickory-nuts, kernels, thoroughly dredged with flour. Stir quickly and turn at once into a well-greased loaf-pan. Bake in a steady oven, covering the cake with brown paper for the first half-hour it is in the oven. When a straw comes out cleanly from the thickest part it is done. When cold, turn out, and cover with a plain white-egg-icing. Arrange the half-kernels of the hickory-nuts at regular intervals on the top of the icing.

Lebanese Salad.—Lay the bottom of the salad-dish with crisp lettuce leaves. Fill the center of the dish with cold boiled or baked fish, cut into pieces, and pour over it a pint of mayonnaise dressing. Garnish with rings of hard-boiled eggs.

Baked Cheese.—Dissolve three ounces of butter in a gill of hot water. Melt three ounces each of American and Gruyere cheese. Stir all together until creamy, then add half a cup of flour to make a stiff paste, and the beaten yolks of two eggs. Mix the whole thoroughly. Mold with two buttered tablespoons, slip off greased paper, and when all is molded set in a moderate oven. When set, brush with brown butter over with the whites of the eggs beaten stiff. Return to the oven for one minute. Take up on a hot dish, dust with pepper and fill the center with grated cheese.

Every Day Talks for Every Day People

BY FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.

To give or not to give? This is the important question of these days, and judging from the time and energy spent in discussing it 'tis best to give gifts with your income.

More man runs go down in the deep recesses of his (last emptying) pocket for the whereabouts for his gifts. But women can call forth many useful gifts to lessen the expense of her generosity.

Odd and ends of cretonne, silk, linen or velvet should be brought out when the Christmas gift-giver sits down to plan tokens that will be attractive as well as useful.

For the sternly practical, something to wear is never amiss and from the scrap bag one can gather material for dainty neckwear and many other pretty practical gifts.

A sailor collar embroidered in colors is a gift that a young girl will be pleased with. Select a color in yarn that you know your friend to be fond of and do not economize in the ribbon for bows.

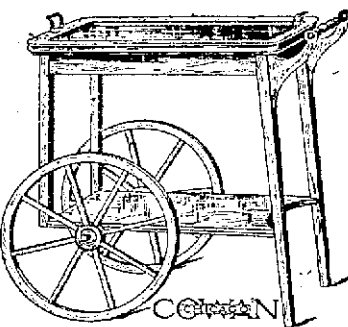

A gift for a baby is crocheted bonnets and bed socks are good presents for the older children. The work necessary to finish these may be accomplished in a few evenings. If you want really dainty slippers use mercerized silk worsted, which looks like silk floss of a very heavy quality and which works up so coarsely that your finger grows with great rapidity. Having worked with hosiery or needles the slip that is long enough to cover the lower portion of the foot, over-stitch one side of it to a silk lined inside, crocheted a fancy finish to the upper side, run through its meshes a ribbon and have this drawstring terminate in a rosette at the instep, while the toe is decorated with a large round buckle of mercerized worsted. Then make the slipper.

More easily fashioned is the "mule" type of slipper for bedroom wear. This consists of merely a satin lined inside to which is attached a V-shaped piece of woven mercerized worsted.

Philosophy of Age.

As we grow older we can see why it is better that a lot of our prayers have been unanswered.—New York American.

Doll a Factor in the World.

The doll remains pre-eminent as the symbol of childhood, and has been of incalculable psychological value in the development of the young intellect throughout the ages, for no matter how rude or primitive its form, it furnished an association of ideas which stimulated the formation of mental pictures, serving to encourage the imagination, that most potent factor of human mentality.

Name in Trunk.

It is a good plan when traveling to have one's name and address printed or written on the inside cover of a trunk, says Good Housekeeping. Then in case of loss of check, or any mistake, it can be identified by the owner to the satisfaction of the railway officials by simply opening the trunk.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) We girls are making up a sewing club and would like to know a nice name to give it.

(2) Is it all right to go to a dancing school and do a little give nice dances?

(3) Is it proper to dance with the same fellow more than twice?

(4) Why is it wrong to receive a valuable present from a fellow if you are not engaged to him? Lots of girls I know do.

We all enjoy your "Heart and Home" problems so much. Every body thinks they are just grand.

Thanking you very much.

MAMIE.

(1) What do you think of "The Thimble Club," "The Busy Bees," "The Happy Workers," or "The Penelope's"? If you don't know who the Penelope was, look up the story of Ulysses in your school library.

(2) A respectable dancing school does not harm, to my mind. I think all girls and boys should know how to dance. A good dancing school gives proper dances.

(3) If you dance too much with one man you are apt to make yourself conspicuous and set people to gossiping. Don't favor one man too much, unless you are engaged to marry him.

(4) Because it places you under obligations to the man, and lays you open to suspicion that you care for him. Girls who accept valuable presents from men, without being engaged to them, are not well thought of.

Thank you for your pleasant words, my dear.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Some of us girls are going to have a surprise party on a boy. There are to be eight boys and eight girls present. Their ages ranging from fourteen to seventeen. Will you please tell me a nice way to plan it, and also a lot of games to pass the evening.

INTERESTED READER.

You might make it a costume party. The boys and girls could meet at the home of one of the members of the party, either in their costumes, or they could change their clothes there.

Each should bring a part of the refreshments, of course, it having been decided what each is to bring, so that there is not a hodge-podge of eatables. Appoint a committee to take charge of the eatables at the house of the boy the party is on.

If you like, you can all wear masks and make him guess your names. That would be fun.

Be sure to tell some member of the family about the party, so that he will be kept at home at the time you all expect to be there. His mother will also help you with some of the arrangements if she knows about the party.

Get a book of games from a book shop, if you can, as there is not space here to tell how to play various games. Games that are full of fun are "Barber shop," "Jerusalem," "Telegrams," "Peanut Rolling," "Spelling Down."

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) How can I overcome bashfulness?

(2) Please tell me how I can reduce my weight? Please name several things I ought only to eat.

(3) Why is it some people are so much fatter than others?

(4) Keep informed upon what is going on around you and in the rest of the world (you can do this by reading the newspapers carefully). Then you will have something to talk about. When you are in company think of other people, not yourself, and try to talk about interesting things. Let others do some talking, too. You can be just as popular if you are a good listener.

(5) You can get thin if you want to live on nothing but milk. It can be done, but you'll get tired of it. Eat anything you like, but only what you want to eat, if you wish to be thin. Those are best two recipes I can give you.

(6) It is just as natural for some people to be fat as it is for some to be thin, and they go against nature and make themselves sick if they try to be thin.

Tells Mothers What To Do For Delicate Children.

"My little boy has been rather delicate for a long time. He was always very pale and his appetite was poor. Several people recommended 'Vinol' I gave it to him and he took it willingly, as the taste is delicious. In a short time I noticed a great improvement in his appetite. He soon had more color, freckles, cheeks. He is now well like other children and romps about every afternoon after school. I am so happy with what 'Vinol' did for my little boy, that I want every mother to know about it. Mrs. C. R. Applegate, Dayton, Ohio."

FACE COVERED WITH PIMPLES

Suffered Three Years. Used Resinol. Now Not A Pimple To Be Seen.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 27, 1912. "I had been troubled for the past three years with pimples which completely covered my face and neck. I tried a sample of Resinol Soap and Ointment and noticed instant relief. I bought Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment, and began the treatment. After using two jars of Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap, there was not a pimple to be seen, and now my face is as smooth as if there was never a pimple on it." ## Classified Want Ad?

"I don't know how I'm ever going to repay my parents for the money they've spent on my business education," said one young girl to another the other morn. "I've tried repeatedly to obtain a position—I don't seem able to get even a small place to start in."

"Did you advertise?" said the young girl addressed. "That's how I got my position and it is really a good one with chance for advancement." "Yes I advertised and I never received even one answer," said the disconsolate one. "How did you advertise?"

"When I finished from Business College I realized that with so many others finishing it was up to me to advertise in a way that would attract attention—and get answers. Something a bit different from a three lines, three times ad. So I wrote a condensed history as it were for the want ad page, telling all my qualifications, my desire to work, my ability to forge ahead. In fact I told most everything I knew about myself so anxious was I to get a position."

It was a large ad and it cost me $2.12 but I received seven answers and decided on my present position."

You see my advertising persistently enabled me to pick my present position."

"I spent a quarter on my advertising campaign and have been at home five weeks getting more discouraged daily. Guess I'll start again and stick 'til I land a position, for the money thus expended is really well spent if it will do for me what it did for you."

"Don't take my word for it, try it and see," said the employed one, as she laughingly bid her friend Good-Bye.

tered with an expression of discomfort on his rather rascous countenance. He walked almost nimbly to the desk and spoke with evident distress as his employer looked up interrogatively.

"McCracken has detained—or—lady, sir," he said feebly. "She has been searched, and we have found about $100 worth of lace on her."

"Well?" Gilder demanded impatiently. Such affairs were too common in the store to make necessary this intrusion of the matter on him. "Why did you come to me about it?"

"I'm very sorry, sir, but I thought it wiser, sir, to—er—to bring the matter to your personal attention. The lady happens to be the wife of J. V. Gaskell, the banker, you know."

CHAPTER III. The Victim of the Law.

Y ES, Gilder did know. The mention of the name was like a spell in the effect it wrought on the attitude of the irritated owner of the store. Instantly his expression changed.

"How extremely awkward!" he cried, and there was a very real concern in his voice. He regarded Smithson kindly, whereas that rather pouting gentleman once again assumed his martial bearing. "You were quite right in coming to me." For a moment he was silent, plunged in thought. Finally he spoke with the decisiveness characteristic of him. "Of course there's nothing we can do. Just put the stuff back on the counter and let her go."

But Smithson had not yet wholly un-burdened himself. He again cleared his throat nervously.

"She's very angry, Mr. Gilder," he announced timidly. "She—er—she demands an—er—an apology."

The owner of the store half rose from his chair, then threw himself back with an exclamation of disgust.

"God bless my soul!" he cried. Again he fell silent, considering the situation which Smithson had presented. At last, however, he mastered his irritation to some degree and spoke his command briefly. "Well, Smithson, apologize to her. It can't be helped."

When Smithson had left the office
Gilder turned to his secretary.

"Take this," he directed, and he forthwith dictated the following letter:

J. V. Gaskell, Esq., Central National Bank, New York.

My Dear Mr. Gaskell—I feel that I should be doing less than my duty as a man if I did not let you know at once that Mrs. Gaskell is in urgent need of medical attention. She came into our store today, and—

He paused for a moment. "No, put it this way," he said finally:

We found her wandering about our store today in a very nervous condition. In her excitement she carried away about $100 worth of rare lace. Not recognizing her, our store detective detained her for a short time. Fortunately for us all, Mrs.
Gaskell was able to explain who she was,
and she has just gone to her home. Hoping for Mrs. Gaskell's speedy recovery, and with all good wishes, I am yours very truly,

Smithson again entered the office,
even more perturbed than before.

"What on earth is the matter now?"
Gilder spluttered suspiciously.

"It's Mrs. Gaskell still," Smithson replied in great repitiation. "She wants you personally, Mr. Gilder, to apologize to her. She says that the action taken against her is an outrage, and she is not satisfied with the apologies of all the rest of us. She says you must make one, too, and that the store detective must be discharged for intolerable insolence."

Gilder bounced up from his chair angrily.

"I'll not discharge McCracken," he voiced, glaring on Smithson, who shrank visibly.

"But about the apology, Mr. Gilder," he reminded, speaking very deferentially, yet with insistence.

"Oh, I'll apologize," he said with a very smile of discomfiture. "I'll make things even up a bit when I get an apology from Gaskell. I sincerely suspect that that estimable gentleman is going to eat humble pie, of my baking, from his wife's recipe. And his will be an honest apology, which mine won't." And he left the room.

It was on this same day that Sarah,
on one of her numerous trips
through the store in behalf of Gilder, was accosted by a salesgirl, whose name, Helen Morris, she chanced to know.

"What on earth do you want?" Sarah inquired snappily.

"What did they do to Mary Turner?"

"They sent her to prison for three years."

"Three years?" The salesgirl had repeated the words in a tone that was indefinite, yet a tone veiled in incredulous questioning. "Three years?"
she said again, as one refusing to believe.

"Yes, three years."

"Good God!" There was no irreverence in the exclamation that broke from the girl's lips. Instead only a tense horror that touched to the roots of emotion.

"Say," Sarah demanded, with the directness habitual to her, "why are you so anxious about it? This is the third time you have asked me about Mary Turner. What's it to you, I'd like to know?"

The salesgirl started violently, and a deep flush drove the accustomed pal-lor from her cheeks. She was obviously much disturbed by the question.

"What is it to me?" she repeated in an effort to gain time. "Why, nothing—nothing at all, only—she's a friend of mine, a great friend of mine. Oh, yes!"

There was a monotone of desolation
as she went on speaking in a whisper meant for the ears of no other. "It's awful—three years! Oh, I didn't understand! It's awful—awful!" With the final word she hurried off, her attitude one of wondering grief.

Sarah was thinking intently of Mary Turner after her return to the office.
As she glanced up at the opening of the door she did not at first recognize the figure outlined there. She remembered Mary Turner as a tall, slender girl, who showed an underlying vitality in every movement, a girl with a face of regular features, in which was a complexion of blended milk and roses, with a radiant joy of life shining through all her arduous and vulgar conditions.

Instead of this, now she saw a frail form that stood swaying in the doorway, that bent in a sinister fashion which told of bodily impotence, while the face was quite bloodless.

A man stood beside her, one of his hands clasped around the girl's wrist.

It was Cassidy, from headquarters,
who spoke in a rough, indifferent voice.

"The district attorney told me to bring this girl here on my way to the Grand Central station with her."

"Mr. Gilder will be right back. Come in and wait."

The two went forward very slowly, the officer, carelessly conscious of his duty, walking with awkward steps to suit the feeble movements of the girl.
Sarah at last found her voice for an expression of sympathy.

"I'm sorry, Mary," she said hesitatingly. "I'm terribly sorry, terribly sorry."

The girl did not look up. She stood still, swaying a little, as if from weakness.

"Are you?" she said. "I did not know. Nobody has been near me the whole time I have been in the Tombs."

"Why," Sarah exclaimed, "there was Helen Morris today! She has been asking about you again and again. She's all broken up over your trouble."

"Who is Helen Morris?" the lifeless voice demanded. There was no interest in the question.

Gilder entered the office with the quick, bustling activity that was ordinarily expressed in his every movement. He paused as he beheld the two foreign to him before finally he spoke to the girl.

"My girl," Gilder said gently—his hard voice was softened by an honest regret—"my girl, I am sorry about this."

"You should be!" came the instant
answer.

"Come, come!" Gilder exclaimed test-
ily. "That's no time to take with me!"

"Why? What sort of tone do you expect me to take?" was the retort in the lifeless voice.

"I expected a decent amount of humanity from one in your position."

Life quickened swiftly in the drooping form of the girl. She stood suddenly erect, and her face lost its blankness of pallor. The eyes opened wide and looked straight into those of the man who had employed her.

"Would you be humble," she demanded, and now her voice was become softly musical, yet forbidding, too, with a note of passion, "would you be humble if you were going to prison for three years for something you didn't do?"

"Don't mind her, sir," Cassidy said.
He meant to make his manner very reassuring. "They all say that. They are innocent, of course! Yes, they all say it. It don't do 'em any good, but just the same they all swear they're innocent. They keep it up to the very last, no matter how right they've been

ABE MARTIN

Who remembers when the women folks wore side laced shoes? 'Bout
th' only thing around a boardin' house that haint got a second hand value is a cold buckwheat cake.

Calmness and Strength.

Power is so characteristically calm, that calmness in itself has the aspect of power, and forbearance implies strength.—Bulwer.

Dinner Stories

The superintendent of a Sunday school repeated to the children the text: "Arise, and take the young child and his mother, and flee into Egypt."

The superintendent showed a large picture illustrating this text in bright colors.

"Isn't this picture fine?" he said.
"Here is the mother, here is the young child. There's Egypt in the distance. Isn't it fine?"

The children, however, looked disappointed, and finally a little boy pipped out:

"Teacher, where's the flee?"

Mrs. Robinson rushed from her bedroom in a state of great indignation, and, leaning over the balustrade at the top of the staircase, shouted angrily:

"Bridget—Bridget, come here this minute!"

Bridget came.

"I thought you said you'd cleaned this room," continued Mrs. Robinson, still shouting angrily. "But just look under the bed; the floor is simply thick with dust. Haven't I told you that you must always sweep under the beds?"

"Well, mum," replied Bridget, in tearful indignation, "and how, I should like to know, could the dust have got under the bed if I hadn't swept it there?"

After spending the summer in a mountain hamlet in Tennessee, the visitor hired a native to help pack up. As they were engaged in boxing a shelf of books the mountaineer remarked: "Somehow Ah nevaah keered much for books; but," he resumed, after a thoughtful pause,
"Ah can't read, an' maybe that had sumpin' to do with it."

Remarkable Ambidexterity.

Sir Edwin Landseer appears to have been one of the best examples of the ambidextrous person on record. In Mrs. Cowden Clark's "Reminiscences" she records her amazement at "Edwin Landseer's wonderful feat, when some one was talking of being able to write or draw with the left hand. Landseer remarked, 'I think I can not only draw with my left hand, but I can draw with both hands at once.' Whereupon he took up two pencils and actually drew a horse with one hand and a dog with the other at the same time."

COMFORTING WORDS

Many a Janesville Household Will Find Them So.

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed—to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders, is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. The following advice of one who has suffered will prove comforting words to hundreds of Janesville readers.

J. W. Roberts, 22 Park St., Janesville, Wis., says: "For years I had trouble from irregular action of my kidneys. I had to get up at night and in the morning I felt tired out. My back ached and I had sore spots over my kidneys. I could hardly straighten out after stooping over. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended in the Gazette, so I used some. I want to say that they relieved the pains and put my kidneys in fine shape. I don't have to get up at night and I feel fine in the morning. It is about ten years ago that I first used Doan's Kidney Pills and I have taken them off and on since. They have kept my kidneys and back free from pain."
